Circumcision and Your Insurance

Circumcision is an elective procedure. Many insurance companies will not pay for circumcision, as they don't for many other elective procedures.

If you plan to have your son circumcised, you will need to contact your insurance carrier to confirm whether this procedure is a covered benefit and will be paid for by the insurance company. If your insurance company will not cover this procedure, you are responsible for paying for this procedure to Maitri Health Care for Women.

Maitri requires advance payment in full prior to performing the procedure. Maitri's charge for a circumcision is $550.

If you pay for the procedure prior to your 36th week of pregnancy, we will give you a 20% discount, reducing the charge to $440.

If you do not know the sex of your baby but have decided to circumcise if the baby is a male, you will need to pay the fee prior to delivery. If the baby is a female, your account will be credited the amount prepaid for the circumcision and a refund payment will be processed.

Please note – you will be billed separately by the University of Vermont Medical Center for the facility charges.

If you have any questions, please contact billing office @ 802-862-7338, option 5.
